The Guardians of Our Legacy

The Guardians of Our Legacy are dedicated alumni who have assumed the responsibility of advancing support for their alma mater, Meharry Medical College. Guardians are members of the Royal Society, a distinguished donor group established to acknowledge those whose contributions total $100,000 or more. The Royal Society is named in honor of Dr. Frank S. Royal Sr., the first alumnus and African American to chair the Meharry Board of Trustees, as well as one of the initial individuals to donate $100,000 to the College.

These notable benefactors have contributed significant resources—both financial and personal—to uphold the stability and advancement of the nation's largest independent, private historically Black academic health science center.

They exemplify the qualities associated with being a “Meharrian”: lifelong accomplishment, leadership, philanthropy, a steadfast commitment to service, dedication to family, and an enduring sense of pride.

of Meharry's mission and the preservation of its legacy may do so by joining the Royal Society. For those unable to join, contributions at any level remain essential and are sincerely appreciated.

The West Society

The West Society of Meharry Medical College recognizes individuals who have provided documentation to the college that they have included Meharry in their estate plans. This society is named in honor of Dr. Harold D. West Sr., the first African American president of Meharry Medical College. A visionary, Dr. West spearheaded a $20-million-dollar national fundraising campaign in 1959 that doubled the endowment and increased grants for training, research and public service tenfold. Dr. West's leadership tripled the faculty and tremendously increased sponsored research.
